Current Comment

by
R. H. KNAPPEN

The old adage, "A bad penny always turns up," is particularly well exemplified in the return to the nation's front pages of our old friends Robert Noble, former head of the notorious "30-Thursday" movement which California voters recently knocked into a limbo from which, we hope, there is no chance for recall.

Mr. Noble, together with a certain Ellis Jones, mentor of the unsavory "Friends of Freedom," are under indictment on charges of "conspiracy to commit criminal libel" on the nation's number one hero, General Douglas MacArthur.

The Friends of Freedom, to whom Noble evidently attached himself when his own pet bubble burst, have currently issued a bulletin which comprises a most scurrilous attack on the patriotism and integrity of General MacArthur. According to INS, which we have no reason to doubt, the bulletin claimed that MacArthur purposely deserted his troops on Bataan: "General MacArthur's desertion of his troops in the field is probably the smallest and basest Dunkirk of a long series."

Attorney General Earl Warren of California has instituted the aforementioned proceedings in the name of the people of this state—and a good thing, too. The action is based on the text of an article emanating from the subversive Nobel-Jones clique which said: "Recently a leading magazine carried a boastful couplet coming from the forces still holding out in the Philippines.

"At that time they were supposed to have the great Gibraltar-like General MacArthur, who valiantly fired on the bonus army in Washington, but now Uncle Sam, disguised as the husband of the leading lady of the land, has taken this great protector from Bataan. He just ran out in the dead of night and didn't tell nobody nothing. . . . ."

Which is, as all subsequent reports have proved, not only poor construction, but a d——d lie to boot. The General left Bataan only at the orders of the President of the United States; he left only to assume a more important command, and one which he believes, will lead to the eventual relief of the Philippines. Furthermore, as we all know, MacArthur did not leave until he had arranged for the continued and so far successful resistance against the invaders—and he left that resistance in the hands of a man who has not only resisted, but who has gained a bit of territory here and there on the Bataan front.

It is safe to assume, therefore, that General MacArthur was reluctant to leave his command at all. His was not the decision, however, and what first class military strategist, so ordered by his commander, could resist—even if he chose—the opportunity to prove that the American-Anzac forces are better, man for man, and machine for machine, than the little yellow brothers who so far in this conflict have had things pretty much their own way?

No, Messrs Noble, Jones et al, will have to search farther afield for a target suitable to the shafts of their unpatriotic barbs. And from where I sit it looks as though they have already committed the prize boner of the marksman—that of turning their own weapons upon themselves.

Sigma Spring Tea And Concert Greatly Enjoyed

The Sigma Sigma club sponsored a charming tea and recital at the Woman's club room yesterday afternoon, April 1.

Miss Ruby Anderson, concert soprano, was soloist and delighted her audience with the power and rich quality of her voice. She sang "Vado Ben Spesso Cangiando Loco" by Bononcini, "Care Selve" by Handel, "Pur Dicesti, O Bocca Bella" by Lotti, "Il est doux, il est bon" by Massenet, "The Star" by Rogers, "Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal" by Roger Quilter, "The Bird of the Wilderness" by Horsman and "Run, Mary, Run" by Guion. For encores she sang "If I Could Tell You" by Idabelle Firestone, and "Summertime" from Porgy and Bess by George Gershwin. Her accompanist was Mrs. Emily Loftus of San Jose.

Miss Anderson, who is now studying voice in Hollywood, is a former teacher in the Campbell Grammar school and a member of the Sigma group.

The hall was beautifully decorated with spring blossomes and the attractive tea table carried out the color scheme with pink tapers and pink and white roses. Miss Dorothy Merriman and Mrs. Irma Sanders presided at the tea table.

Miss Merriman, president of the club, was the general chairman. Committee chairmen were as follows: tea arrangements, Mrs. Anna Klassen; publicity, Mrs. Myrrl Block; tickets and program, Miss Hancie Naylor; decorations, Mrs. Carol Evans; piano, Miss Rachel Spradling; reception, Mrs. Marian Jensen.

Veva Nicholls Announces Engagement

The public announcement of the engagement of Miss Veva Nicholls and Private Dean Chamberlin was made at an evening party Friday at the home of the bride-elects parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Nicholls, West Campbell avenue.

On each individual tray on which refreshments were served was a small mailbox with RFD printed on the door and the name of each guest printed on the side. Inside the mailbox was a miniature letter, revealing the betrothal.

Miss Nicholls is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Nicholls. She graduated from Campbell schools and attended the San Jose State college and Heald's business college. She is a member of Sigma Tau Delta sorority and is presiding officer of Delta Eta chapter of Alpha Iota, honorary business sorority.

We Shall Win--or Die

LAST WEEK a blunt soldier — that remarkable soldier, General Douglas MacArthur, stated in seven words the reason why every American under his command is ready to fight to the death—and why every mechanic and farmer and executive and housewife and office worker at home must make every sacrifice of effort and money to the winning of the war and to that end must cast off every shackle of personal prejudice and factional strife.

"We shall win," declared General MacArthur, "or we shall die."

This is a war of self-preservation for whole peoples. It isn't, any more, a question of idealogies in conflict. One-half of the world has set out implacably to attack and destroy the other half. One side must prevail by destroying the other.

Either San Francisco and Los Angeles and New York will be blitzed and smashed—or Tokio and Yokohama and Berlin must be blitzed and smashed. Either the Jap and German and Italian armed forces must be annihilated and the fighting spirit of their peoples broken by frightful blows — or the armed forces of England and America and Russia must be annihilated and the fighting spirit of their peoples broken by frightful blows. Those are the only alternatives, as MacArthur clearly sees.

The Japanese chief of staff has publicly promised his nation that he will dictate the peace to a prostrate American people from the White House. Then America can only resolve that an American general—and who more suitable than General MacArthur?—shall dictate the peace to a prostrate Japanese people from their Emperor's palace.

"There can be no compromise," said MacArthur. "We shall win, or we shall die."

April--25 Years Ago

THIS MONTH of April, in 1917, was mighty exciting for Americans. On April 6th, we declared war on Germany. The Germans scoffed at us. We were wholly unprepared, they said, which was true. But they told us our best would be too little and too late—as they are telling us now!

Yet just exactly one year, seven months and five days after April 6, 1917, the enemy surrendered before a gigantic host of hard-hitting Yanks, on November 11, 1918. Let's remember that in these times, when enemy propaganda tells us we've started with too little too late. Let's get behind our armed forces now as we did then.. We're only into this war four months. Wait until one year, seven months and five days of it have passed! We did it before—we'll do it again.

"So live that you can look MacArthur in the eye."

Leaders of the United Auto Workers have just won an arbitration decision in Detroit. It gives them double time in all General Motors plants when the men work on Sundays or holidays, even though this work is merely part of a 40-hour week.

Where would they look if they met MacArthur?

Easter, April 5

THE SEASON of Easter, sweeping over the land in the full tide of spring, announces the earth's reawakening and the rebirth of the faith and hope proclaimed on that first Day of Resurrection.

The spirit of Eastertide pierces even hours darkened by war to illumine the lives of young and old.

You'll see a glint of it in the sparkling eyes of the youngsters, merrily scampering through the grass in quest of the hidden Easter egg.

You'll discover its glow in the eyes of young couples, lingering on the church steps Easter Sunday after services are over.

You'll witness its gay color in the bonnets and dresses of women and girls which bring an Easter parade to every city and hamlet on this day.

You'll find its beauty alike in the serene silence of church and cathedral the moment before voices are lifted in song, and in the triumphant "Hosannas!" which proclaim in ageless words, "He is risen!"

There is no death for the Prince of Peace. Nor for man's ideal of peace. It has remained constant through the centuries, through times that were dark and violent. Sometimes it has been necessary to defend by arms that, or any other ideal which free men hold dear, in order to save it from destruction. In a godless world of tyranny, Easter would clearly become a mockery. What faith, what hope, could be affirmed, what triumphant hosannas sung, where man is debased to the level of the animals in the field?

The spirit of Easter has been a living flame in the hearts of men for 20 centuries. This year, as yesterday, the Day of Resurrection celebrates that renewal of man's faith and hope, that reawakening which Nature herself proclaims as she clothes the earth in the dazzling raiment of Spring.

Whiskers for Defense

ONLY ONE safety razor blade a week! So orders the WPB.

And bravely the men of America prepare to incur the noble scars of the Battle of the Bathroom, where blood will flow from the chin nicked with the worn blade, the blade the little woman has used to scrape chewing gum off the kitchen linoleum, or the blade junior snitched to finish his model airplane.

Less resolute men (or braver men?) may give up shaving and face their fellows and gal friends sporting a kingly van dyke, the commoner spade beard, the ancient beaver, and all manner of beards. It will be the duty of the nation's women to encourage the luxuriant production of chin foliage, however it may appall them.

Steel for offense comes first, nowadays—leaving ony whiskers for defense.

Hitch-Hiker

THAT CONGRESS has at last gotten round even to consider outlawing the "rider" is itself noteworthy. Of all the tricks in legislators' deck of cards this is one of the most unfair.

A "rider" is like throwing a drowning man a lifeline—on condition he give you permission to shoot his family. The only difference being that in civil life, such consent, if given, would be null and void, but in legislative procedure is absolutely binding.

A rider is a bill which, having no other chance of passing, is attached to an indispensable measure, like an army appropriation; the President has no alternative but to sign both, or veto both. The "rider" is a legislative hitch-hiker that deserves a "thumbs down" answer from Congress.

Sixty four billion in the 18 months preceding Pearl Harbor; seventy two billion in the twelve weeks following! That represents the nation's approximate dollar outlay in war expenditures to date. So staggering is the sum, it's still a military secret—to the people of the Axis countries.

Sgt. Smith Rites Held Here Friday

Sergeant Gerald T. Smith who was killed in a truck and street car collision in Los Angeles was buried Friday in Oak Hill Memorial Park with a rifle squad firing the three volleys over the grave and a bugler playing taps.

The funeral rites for the young soldier, whose parents were former residents of San Jose, were held from the Rutherford Funeral Home here.

Elders A. E. Place and A. O. Sage conducted the services, with music by Mrs. Rosalie Graves, soloist and Mrs. Virginia Rutherford, organist.

Miss Barbaccia is a graduat of Campbell Union High school and Mr. Pecoraro graduated from Santa Clara High school. No date for the wedding has been set.

THE BOOK MARK

by marty

"The Valor of Ignorance" by Homer Lea.

This book has so stunned the Book Mark that it is difficult to find one single word to begin this review. My first reaction to it is that it is a boomerang. It was in 1909 that Homer Lea, an American military genius, put down on paper and had published in book form all of the war actions that are tearing the world to pieces today. He, with his keen insight into the military status of all countries of the world, showed in black and white just where our United States stood in the field of arms. And that was, in cold plain facts, practically unarmed. Lea also foretold what would happen to our country if we did not get wise and build up our army and navy.

When this book was first published, it created a bit of an alarm both in this country and abroad. But the alarm was short-lived in America. The author was acclaimed by some as a war-monger and by others as a military genius. His warnings went unheeded. In Japan it was required reading by all officers in the service. At West Point it was "optional."

At the beginning of this article, I said that I was so stunned that I did not know where to begin, and the more I try to say the more difficult it becomes to try to convey to you the seriousness and truth in this book. Lea's amazing prophesies are coming true. Japan's attack on Manila was almost action for action as Lea foretold. I tell you it's uncanny. And the awfulness of the whole edition is that Mr. Lea described in minute detail, and even went so far as to draw maps to show just how our Pacific coast would be attacked and invaded by the Japanese. He told how San Francisco would be taken, from what direction the troops would come and how long it would take the enemy to complete the occupation. It's terrible to read and to realize that it is not only possible but that unless a miracle happens, under General MacArthur's hand of genius, such predictions will happen here—yes, right here in our own homes in Campbell.

Homer Lea wrote these pages thirty-three years ago. He is dead now, but events in the war area are coming to pass just as he said they would.

Whatever Homer Lea was, whether a dreamer or a scientific military wizard, his prophetic book is one that is of vital importance to every American today.

Orchard City Grange

Orchard City Grange held its regular meeting in the I. O. O. F. hall on March 24.

The lecture program was under the direction of Martin S. Walsh who introduced attorney William N. Jacka of San Jose, speaker. Jacka's talk was on national labor relations under the Wagner act which was highly enlightening and very interesting.

At the close of Mr. Jacka's speech there was a musical entertainment. Mary Alice Grim sang three songs, accompanied by Mrs. Virginia Rutherford. The Country Woman's club chorus sang three numbers including their theme song: "United States of America and a humorous medley of old fashioned American songs.

The master, M. F. Hughes announced that the next meeting of the grange will be past master's night. Mrs. S. N. Hedegard and Mrs. Harry Barnes will have charge of the program.

Ernest Coonradt, district deputy, will hold a school of instruction for grange officers at the Mt. Pleasant school April 8 at 8 o'clock. It was also announced that Edward R. Thompson of Campbell is the first Orchard City grange member to be called to the colors.

Lloyd Gardner reported that on April 20 the Orchard City grange will be host to a water conservation committee at a luncheon. Herbert Shadle reported for the civic improvement committee.

Mrs. Nellie Rutherford told of the need for books and magazines for the observers, and urged women to volunteer for that duty.

The next meeting of the home economics club will be held April 10 at 1 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lavinia Grattan.

Bombers Go On Assembly Line

San Diego, April 2—Latest aircraft manufacturing company to install powered assembly lines, Consolidated Aircraft corporation is the first plane builder to apply this aid to volume production of the huge four-engine bombers which will help to deliver the war's knockout punch to the Axis powers.

While powered assembly lines have been used for some time by many companies producing trainer and fighter planes—for instance, the Vultee basic trainer and the Bell Airacobra fighter — installation of such a line at Consolidated presented multiplied problems.

This was due to the tremendous size of the planes the blacked out, grimly guarded San Diego plant is building. The Consolidated Liberator, four-engine land bomber being used on all fronts, is made up of more than 100,000 parts, exclusive of thousands of rivets and bolts, and has the largest wing spread of any land bomber made in the United States, possibly in the world.

The Liberator will be followed, eventually, on the new assembly line by Consolidated's famous Catalina patrol boats.

Will care for children in my home by hr. or day. Hot lunch at noon. L.G.-S.J. hiway. Rt. 1 Bx. 193Y. Cambrian Corners.

Dyer retired with the best wishes of more than 50,000 fellow workers and a host of friends in other walks of life.

Father Hubbard To Give Lecture

Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, S. J., famous glacier priest, will return to the University of Santa Clara on Tuesday, April 7, to be presented in a lecture and motion picture, "Alaska, Our Arctic Fortress." He will appear in the university auditorium at 8:15 o'clock under the sponsorship of the Catala club.

Father Hubbard has spent the past several months in Alaska contacting army and navy and coast guard officials and comes with the most up to date information available on the Alaskan situation.

He says: "Whoever gets to Alaska first will hold it. Our forces are there now so we command the situation."

Father Hubbard is not one who will lull his audiences into false security. He is too well aware of our nearness to Asia for that.

There will be an afternoon performance for school children. Tickets for the evening performance will be available at Curtis Lindsays and the University of Santa Clara.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR

Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

The California State Supreme Court, in a series of decisions of fundamental and far-reaching consequence, has written a new and brilliant chapter in labor relations jurisdiction during recent weeks.

It is a chapter which will go far in eliminating strike practices that were an affront to law and order and which actually amounted to gangsterism, conducted under the cloak of picketing.

Some weeks ago, in this column, attention was called to the high court's decision that mass picketing, where such mass picketing causes persons to fear bodily harm, is in violation of the law. Of such mass picketing, the court said: "It is forceful intimidation and constitutes violence." This decision was rendered in a case involving the Yuba county anti-picketing ordinance.

Even more sweeping is the count's recent decision in an injunction suit by the Elm Oil company of Long Beach against the CIO Oil Workers International Union, Local No. 128.

In this case, the court held:

1—That physical injury is not essential to constitute violence in connection with picketing; that threats and intimidation will suffice.

2—That a blanket injunction prohibiting picketing in any form may lawfully be issued, where picketing is accompanied by such violence.

The supreme court's majority opinion in this case contained this basic declaration:

"The constitutional guaranty of freedom of speech extends no further than to confer upon workmen the right to publicize the facts of an industrial controversy by peaceful and truthful means.

"Labor has no sanctuary in any federal right when it departs from the bounds of peaceful persuasion and resorts to acts of violence, physical intimidation or false statements. Under such circumstances, picketing loses its character as an appeal to reason and becomes a weapon of illegal coercion."

The court then proceeded to hold that where picketing is "thoroughly enmeshed" with violence all future picketing in any form can be lawfully enjoined.

Noting that no physical injury was involved in the case at issue, the court held, however, that the intimidation consisted mainly of following or shadowing customers and employees of the company and wives of the employees. This, the court ruled, amounted to physical intimidation because "the threat of violence is implicit in such shadowing."

Such shadowing, threats and vile language, declared the court's opinion, were "thoroughly enmeshed" with the picketing, and the action of the lower court in issuing an injunction prohibiting the picketing was therefore upheld.

Farmers, who have sometimes wondered during labor disputes whether there was one law in this country for labor, and another for the public at large, will welcome the Supreme Court's decisions as new proof that no group, no matter how powerful it may be, can flaunt the law without eventually being called to account for its transgressions.

It is particularly fortunate that the high court's decisions should be handed down at this time, for this is a period not only when it is imperative that we have labor peace and uninterrupted production but it is a period, too, when it is doubly important that we should scrupulously maintain at home the democratic principles for which we are fighting abroad.

Canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice, which is a good source of vitamins B_1 and C, served frapped and brightly garnished with berries and mint in your favorite cocktail glasses, is just the first course for your Easter dinner.

Frosted Pineapple Juice — Crush white pillow mints with a rolling pin until they look like powdered sugar. Wet rims of cocktail glasses and dip in powdered mints. Fill glasses with shaved ice, being careful not to disturb sugared rims. Fill with unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice which has been well-chilled in can before opening. Garnish with sliced strawberries and sprigs of mint. Serve at once with short cocktail straws.

Strawberry and Grapefruit Cocktail

1¾ cups chilled grapefruit sections, free from membrane and split in halves
Chilled grapefruit juice
1 box (16 oz.) quick-frozen sliced strawberries, thawed
6 sprigs of mint

Sweeten grapefruit sections and chill ½ hour. Drain, reserving juice. Arrange 6 grapefruit sections in bottom and around sides of each sherbet glass and fill center with strawberries. Pour grapefruit juice over fruit. Garnish with mint. Serves 6. Remember, when you use quick-frozen strawberries, that there's no waste. All quick-frozen foods come to you ready to cook or serve, with all their fresh flavor and full vitamin content sealed in by quick-freezing.

Lima Loaf

2 cups cooked, dried Limas
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
3 tablespoons melted butter
1 egg, well beaten
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs

Combine ingredients and turn into a buttered bread pan. Bake in a moderate oven (360° F.) about 25 minutes. To serve, unmold in center of platter, place strips of crisp bacon over the top and garnish with slices of fried tomatoes.

Cheese Tray Hospitality

When you plan a hospitable cheese buffet, take your cue from the chefs and add an extra plus of glamour by co-starring Liederkranz cheese with fresh fruit. You can feel free to indulge in gracious hospitality when you serve cheese, because it doesn't cut into the sugar ration. Stock your tray with such treats as Camembert, Brie, Swiss and Liederkranz cheese, which are all available with made-in-America labels at budget prices. Roquefort, a war casualty, has been succeeded by Blue cheese, an American-made specialty that's a tasty addition to any cheese tray. Blue cheese has also been added to the line of cocktail cheese spreads, packed in attractive reusable glasses.

Magic Orange Ice Cream
(Automatic Refrigerator Method)

1½ cups (15 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
1½ cups fresh orange juice
Orange vegetable coloring, optional
1 cup whipping cream

Mix sweetened condensed milk, orange juice and vegetable coloring, if desired. Chill. Whip cream to custard-like consistency. Fold into chilled mixture. Freeze in freezing unit of refrigerator until half frozen. Scrape from freezing tray. Beat until smooth, but not melted. Replace in freezing unit until frozen. Serves 6. When you use sweetened condensed milk as an ice cream mix, you're assured of a creamy-smooth, velvety texture. And you can make this luscious triumph without cutting into your sugar ration.

Spiced Coffee

6 cups decaffeinated coffee
½ cup cream, whipped
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg

Top each cup of coffee with a spoonful of whipped cream into which the spices have been folded. Sugar may be served with the coffee if desired. You can use your favorite method of making the coffee, with regular grind for percolated or boiled coffee and drip grind for drip or glass maker. Allow a heaping tablespoon for each cup. And if you "perk" it, give it a few minutes extra brewing to bring out its full flavor. This is a delicious brew to serve for supper on Easter Day when you and your guests will want to linger over second cups without worrying over sleeping problems later on.

After-Easter Games

Games that all the family can take part in can play an important part in building good morale on the home front. Favorite parlor pastimes that school age children can share with their parents include Dig, a new version of word building played with little gold miners' picks and Thumbs Up, the V for Victory game that's based on matching tile symbols. El Dorado, the treasure hunting game and Monopoly are other parlor favorites that provide good competition for parents and children.

Theta Rho Installation

A very enjoyable evening was spent Saturday by all who attended the joint installation of Campbell and Boulder Creek Theta Rho clubs.

The officers were installed by the San Jose club, which did very beautiful work.

The Campbell officers installed were: Hazel Morrill, president; Jane Gerrans, vice president; Marie Lobrovich, recording secretary; Dennise Bushnell, financial secretary; Marilyn Williamson, treasurer.

Refreshments and dancing were enjoyed by all after the installation.

Approximately 40 soldiers from a quartermaster battalion were guests of the Campbell club. These same boys will be guests at the club's dance on April 11.

Mrs. Lionel Lenox, a resident of Campbell for several years during the life of the Growers Bank, of which Mr. Lenox was an officer, was a guest last week of Mrs. Lloyd C. Shank. The Lenox family is now living in San Francisco.

Representing the Country Woman's club and Pundita Circle at the annual meeting of the Santa Clara County Federation of oWmen's clubs Friday were presidents, Mrs. George Jeffers and Wendell Thomas, and members, Miss Jessie Lewis and Mesdames R. H. Hyde, J. O. Leverton, H. C. Smith, W. H. Van Dyke, G. W. Burrow, L. J. Carboni and G. W. Page. Campbell was honored in having Mrs. Hyde elected as one of the two trustees of the student loan fund, a position which she held upon a previous occasion. Mrs. W. R. Morgan, also of Campbell, was the retiring trustee.

Campbell has another radio artist of whom we learned just recently, Miss Norma Vannuci, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vannuci of South Second street. Miss Vannuci sings over station KSFG (1120) Los Angeles Monday and Saturday nights, program beginning at 11:35, and she also takes feminine parts in descriptive plays under the name of Norma Vance.
